

General Installation Warning Notice

Energy Sentry Demand Management System installation is required to be performed by a licensed and duly-qualified electrician.

Your safety is our primary concern. While many homeowners may feel they may have electrical wiring experience and may be able to perform this task, the installation of a Demand Management System is potentially dangerous. Improper installation can result in electric shock, injury, death, or property damage. Brayden Automation Corp's policy is clear and rigid. We require all systems to be installed by licensed and duly-qualified electricians. Energy Sentry Dealers are required to have licensed electricians on staff or contract with licensed electrical contractors. Licenses must be current and valid, and cover the city, state, or other applicable jurisdiction where the installation work is being performed. Sorry, No Exceptions.

